ATHLETIC DIRECTORS FOR Y. M. C. A. WORK

Ray Morrison, Ex-Vandy Star, Sent Out From Oglethorpe
to Find Material.

Ray Morrison, ex-Vanderbilt football star, now army "Y" physical director in Oglethorpe, has just returned from a tour over West and Middle Tennessee scouting for athletic directors for the "Y" who will do overseas work.

A great demand for these directors came from the "Y" organization. The southeastern department is supposed to furnish fifty such directors each month through July. Morrison states that he was able to obtain only six men, perhaps eight, and that fifty men per month were impossible to obtain from the southeastern division.

Qualifications necessary for this work are a knowledge of basketball, baseball, track work and football. The greater part of the work explained Morrison, is rather executive than professional coaching. The men over in France do not want to practice the technique of sports, they want to play.
Every game will be a contest on its merits without the drudgery of practice.

The gentle game of pushball broke the arm of a soldier in the recruit detachment camp of the M. O. T. C. The medical physical directors procured a big pushball, lined off the ground and then ordered out a company of men to play the game. The captain said he ordered the men out so they would learn the game and come to it of their own will. However, when the captain had his men lined up on each side of the big sphere he said he was afraid his recruits would get hurt. The physical director assured him that nevertheless the history of sport did a pushball hurt anybody. Nevertheless, a man came up with a snapped arm.

SECOND TIME IN HISTORY.

Washington, May 24.—For the first time since the occupation of the capital by the British in the War of 1812, oldest attaches said, the flag of a foreign power floated over the White House today.

It was the royal Italian standard, flown beside the Stars and Stripes in honor of the third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the world war.

KUEHLMANN TELLS OF ECONOMIC ADVANTAGES

(Associated Press.)
Amsterdam, May 24.—Discussing the treaty of peace with Rumania before the Berlin chamber of commerce, Dr.
Richard von Kuehlmann, the German foreign minister, said that owing to the geographical situation there was a question as to territorial acquisitions by Germany, but he said that important economic advantages had been obtained, including the use of the Danube route, unimpeded traffic on the Danube, the use of cables and telegraphs and the necessary guarantees had been obtained that Rumania will deliver what she can of cereals, oil and other products.

Dr. Von Kuehlmann emphasized the fact that negotiations were conducted in the closest agreement with all Germany's allies, especially Austria-Hungary, and that the understanding reached afforded a basis for Germany's economic policy in the Balkans and elsewhere.

The foreign minister concluded by saying that all efforts to form closer ties on the European continent would only stimulate Germany to strive after free trade, including a free sea. He said in closing:
